Reza Rismani joined TAM in 2001 and became a shareholder in 2005. Reza is a proven problem solver and a seasoned litigator who actively manages all phases of litigation.

As counsel, Reza is committed to fostering communications with the client and carrier with the immediate goal of an early and effective resolution, if possible. Reza has developed a philosophy to address the challenges of litigation with a team approach to reduce liability, expedite resolution or advance the interests of his clients.

In addition to his third party and litigation practice, Reza has handled many first party matters, most notably when he served as coverage counsel for a large insurance company in $13Million dollar insurance claim by an insured where arson fraud was suspected. Reza successfully investigated the matter, including many Examinations Under Oath, which resulted in a denial of the claim, recovery of fees, and criminal prosecution.

Reza has served as an adjunct professor at The Metropolitan College of Denver and is a former Diversity Chair for the Defense Research Institute's Trucking Committee. He is a frequent speaker at nationwide seminars.
